

Why Invest?

The Strength Deployment Inventory® allows you to:

- Accelerate team building, development and performance
- Build effective and rewarding relationships with others
- Understand the motivations and personal strengths of others
- Increase performance through the reduction of conflict
- Develop your negotiation and influencing skills
- Improve your sales and marketing techniques
- Develop your leaders through the receiving of feedback on the expectations of behaviours in job roles
- Create more effective teaching & learning environments.

The SDI® Beyond Behaviour

We have a lot of tools in our tool box and the Strength Deployment Inventory® has got to be one of our favourites. Why do we like the SDI so much? We receive a lot of enquiries from professionals who want training courses that improve communication, reduce conflict, develop team performance and build stronger intra-team relationships. The SDI allows us to do all of this and more.

The effectiveness of the Strength Deployment Inventory® lies in its simplicity. A positive and validating tool, it is easy to grasp and practical to use. So if you only have a day or two and really want to know how to get the best out of your team, know what motivates them and how to recognise and deal with conflict in a useful way, this is just the ticket.

The Strength Deployment Inventory® allows teams and individuals to both communicate and relate to others more effectively. It moves beyond the external behaviours we experience in others and into the motivations, intentions and values that drive them. This, in turn, provides the opportunity to accelerate the building of stronger, more resourceful and more effective teams in any environment.
